

The "Financial Communauty"

As a secured communications solutions publisher, BeesNEST provides an inside link between company trade fields and third-party internet providers.

Created by Jean-François Ducourtioux, BeesNEST is a French start-up operating as a publisher on the software market.

Specialized in producing middleware communications, BeesNEST has an active role in the organization of exchanges between a company's trade field and third-party internet providers.

Customers will find within the offer, a secured means of sub-contracting part of their business exchanges while preserving a close link with their production tools.

Invoice dematerialization, legal archiving, e-mail tracking, correspondences (fax, SMS, voice Reach) are the functionalities offered by the publishers product.

BeesNEST is a privileged partner with Internet service suppliers by forwarding business flow to their platforms.

The value offer associated to the software commercialised by BeesNEST is directed at 3 different profiles within a company.

- End User
- Legal Management
- IT Management

For End Users, the emphasis is placed on engineering and exchange tracking.

For Legal management, interfacing will allow consolidation of contentious elements by exploiting stocked data on the ASP platform. (The stored application acts as a third-party trustee).

IT management will have use of a non-intrusive solution, absorbing the technical off-setting between an application in the production and new internet technologies.

Financial Community

BeesNEST has based its strategy on managing its human resources on a principal called "commission fees". As opposed to experts that dedicate their spare time gratuitously to Open-Source solutions, BeesNET has opted to remunerate its members on its sales results.

A motivating challenge

Because for a team, strength and boldness are 2 of the elements in the key to success, commission fees will undoubtedly bolster individual energies to assemble forces in the development of an ambitious project. Each player must come out with an enriched personal experience, technical notoriety and financial reward.

The desire to design a leading software, to actively participate in the structure of new methods these are the values that BeesNEST proposes to its members, clients and partners.

Life size projects

This software is the result of a fruitful collaboration between several technical teams. Each one warrants the entailment and the participation of its members as a whole.

- A group responsible for the creation of the initial product
- A support group
- A group dedicated in keeping up with major evolutions.

Quality and Drive

Excellence and innovation are the fibers that our teams are made of. Team spirit and dedication, the strive for commercial success, respecting our clients and our partners, these are the values shared by each and every member of BeesNEST.

Ambition ...

Our objective is for BeesNEST to become a leader on the european market in software publishing in terms of "paid commission fees"
